Child Killed In Truck Accident

A Perry County child was killed in an accident at Bonnyman late Tuesday afternoon.

Judy Darline Cox died instantly when struck by a coal truck on route 28 about .2 of a mile east of the Bonnyman Post Office.

The driver of the truck, Wilbur Dennis Jones, 28, reported to State Police that he was traveling west on Ky. 28 when he noticed three girls playing beside the highway. He said that one of the girls started backing into the path of the truck and he was unable to stop before hitting her.

Police said the accident was unavoidable and no charges were filed.

Judy is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ray Cox of Bonnyman; four brothers, Billy Lee, Bobby Dean, David Wayne and Arnold Roger all at home; one sister Carlyon Jean also survives.

Her maternal grandfather Arnold Couch of Busy also survives.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 p.m. at the Airport Gardens Church of the Lord Jesus Christ with James Neace and Garrett White officiating.

Burial will be in the Riverside Cemetery with the Maggard Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Mr. M. K. Eblen

The body will lie in state at the home of the parents until time for the funeral.

The Blue Diamond Grade School Basketball team, of which one of the brothers, Billy Lee, is a member has postponed its scheduled trip to Cincinnati, Ohio, this weekend because of the tragic accident.

M. K. Eblen Named To Lead Red Cross Drive

Claude Isaacs, Jr., Chairman of the Perry County Red Cross Chapter, announced that Mr. M. K. Eblen, has accepted the Chairmanship of the Red Cross Fund Campaign, for Hazard and Perry County. He also held this job last year.

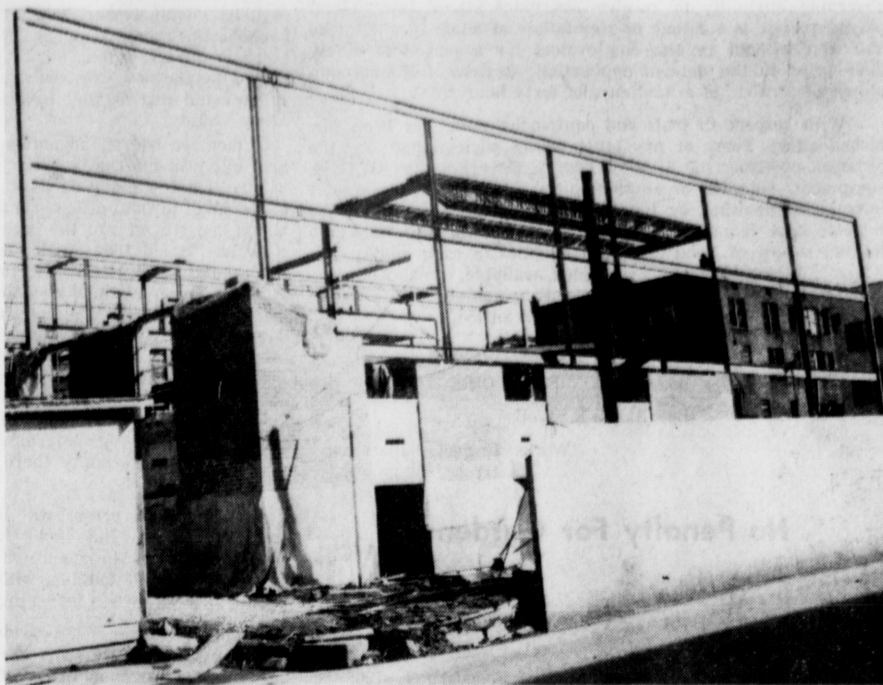

Mr. Eblen is a prominent Hazard Attorney and Coal Operator and is very active in church and civic affairs. He is a man with an impressive record for working for civic improvement. Isaacs says he can think of no one better qualified for this important work.

Eblen has served one term as City Attorney and has twice been the Mayor of Hazard.

He is a member of Bowman Memorial Methodist Church in Hazard and has served as a member of the official board for years.

He is a past president of the Hazard Lions Club, Coal Operators Association, Bar Association and is the current president of the Hazard Chamber of Commerce.

Last Year Mr. Eblen was awarded the year plaque as Hazard's Outstanding Man of the Year.

Going Up

Recent snows and bad weather slowed construction on Perry County's new courthouse, but workmen are back on the job now, trying to meet a late summer deadline called for by contract. Bricklayers are making progress on the exterior, as the photo indicates, while inside excavation and construction continues. The outside of the building, when finished, will be of brick and stone. The courthouse will house the Perry County jail on the third floor. The Herald plans to run periodic pictures showing the progress of the building. The picture above was taken last Friday.

Codell Construction Enters Low Bid On Fishtrap Dam

The construction firm that built Buckhorn Dam has submitted a low bid of $9,898,561 for construction of a dam, spillway and intake superstructure for Fishtrap Reservoir in Pike County.

This announcement was made yesterday by the U. S. Corps of Engineers.

Codell Construction Company's bid was more than $1 million under the anticipated $10.9 million construction cost.

The new reservoir will be on the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River. It is expected to be completed in 1968.

Construction of the Carr Fork Dam in Knott County is expected to begin early this coming summer, with a projected completion date of December, 1967.

Classes Organized To Teach Firemen

The Bulan Fire Department, in cooperation with the Hazard Area Vocational School, will begin an evening class in basic fireman training at the Hazard Fire Department.

The class will start February 22, at 6 p.m. The Hazard Fire Department's chief, Lawrence "Shorty" Sizemore, has been cooperative in making this class possible.

The instructor for the class will be Mr. George VanHorn, of the State Department of Vocational Education. VanHorn was formerly with the Covington, Kentucky fire department. The Bulan Fire Department is composed entirely of volunteers. They are sponsored by Kentucky Civil Defense. Civil Defense officials are presently assisting the Bulan volunteers in obtaining a fire truck through the Division of Surplus Property.

Hall Pleads Guilty To Manslaughter, Asks For Probation

Charges of murder against Caria Hall for the slaying last August 14 of Mary Baker of Yerkes were reduced to manslaughter in Perry Circuit Court this week, and Hall pleaded guilty.

He was sentenced to five years in prison, but sentencing has been postponed pending consideration of his request for probation.

In other court action this week, lack of prosecution resulted in dismissed cases against Roy Gilbert, accused of failing to do his duty in case of an accident; Hack Noble, Don Noble, Fitch Noble, Junior Noble and Chris Roberts, accused of banding and confederating; Hilda Adams and Sammy Kilburn, accused of recklessly using a deadly weapon, and Woodrow Dwayne Cornett, accused of non support.

Asbel Hall pleaded guilty to charges of obtaining property under false pretenses and was sentenced to a year in prison, to be served concurrently with a sentence he is now serving.

Tommy Radar pleaded guilty to selling untaxed alcoholic beverages and was fined $100 and costs.

Frankie King was tried by a jury for grand larceny and was sentenced to one year in prison. Isaac Noble was tried by a jury for malicious shooting at without wounding. He was found innocent.

These cases were continued to the May term of court: Charles E. Johnson, housebreaking; Andy Williams, Charles Johnson, Dennie Day and Robert Ashley, housebreaking. James "Red" Childers and Bobbie Jean Childers failed to show up for trials for robbery and banding and confederating, and the Commonwealth Attorney asked that their bonds be forfeited.

The new Grand Jury was convened on Monday, but was instructed to next report for duty March 1.

These are the jury members: Midas Deaton, Mrs. Gene Combs, William McIntyre, Jr., Sherman Jones, Fred Gross, Lige Baker, Kelly Combs, Kermit Asher, L. B. Smith, Chester Howard and Virgil Napier. Napier is the foreman.

Appalachian Hospitals May Get Federal Aid

Appalachian Regional Hospital, Inc., may be in line for federal aid in the amount of $500,000, if reports from various unofficial sources in Washington are accurate.

The hospitals, one of which is located in Hazard, may undertake community action programs such as health screening and training of medical workers, in exchange for the aid, the sources report.

Committee Plans County-Wide Clean-Up Drive

The newly-formed Community Facilities Committee of the Perry County Development Association is off to a head start in the drive to uplift and develop the resources of the county.

At a meeting Tuesday evening at the home of committee chairman, Mrs. Gene Combs, the group began planning for a county-wide clean up campaign, to be launched March 15, and continue through April 15.

The committee is sponsoring a dinner at the Roy G. Eversole Elementary School Thursday, February 25, to firm up plans for the project and enlist the support of as many people as possible.

The dinner will be at 6:15 p.m. Tickets are $1.50 each. The public is invited.

The afternoon before the dinner, a tour of the county is planned, to be led by representatives of the Perry County Health Department.

The purpose of the tour is to pinpoint particularly ugly areas, and to select possible sites for county garbage dumps.

A main target of the clean up drive is the hundreds of old auto bodies scattered about the roadways, and on private property within sight of passing motorists.

The committee plans to use enforcement of existing litter laws as a major weapon in the drive to beautify the county.

The committee also hopes to encourage private businesses, particularly those along the roadsides such as service stations to improve the appearance of their buildings.

The committee has invited state officials from Frankfort to go on the Thursday tour, and to attend the dinner that evening.

Here are the people who attended the organizing meeting Tuesday:

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Combs, Steve Sandlin, Joe Wells, Mr. and Mrs. John Stringer, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Creech, Mrs. Floyd Hall, Mrs. Glenn Reynolds, Circuit Judge Don Ward, Mrs. Charlie Fugate, the Rev. John A. Naegele, Mrs. Chalmers Lindon, Mrs. Florine Adkins, Mrs. Bonnie C. Seale, former County Judge J. A. Smith, Hazard Police Chief Sam "Bud" Luttrell, Mayor Willie Dawahare, County Agent Paul Keen, Mrs. Paul Townes, and Mrs. John Sheegog.

PCDA Committee Goes To Work

These people form the nucleus of the Perry County Development Association's Community Facilities Committee, which has announced plans for a county-wide clean up campaign to begin March 15. They are, from the left, Mrs. John Sheegog, Mrs. Eugene Combs, (chairman), former County Judge J. A. Smith, present County Judge Babe C. Noplis, Mrs. Florine Adkins, and Circuit Judge Don A. Ward.

Pickets Close Letcher County Mine In New Organizing Drive

63 Men Reportedly Leave Jobs At Elk Horn - Jellico Coal Company At Marlow; One Man Arrested Tuesday During Picketing

About 200 pickets appeared again this morning at the Southeast Coal Company at Polly in Letcher County, but, according to State Police, no violence or arrests resulted.

This was the third straight day that large numbers of men have picketed the mine, hoping to encourage its workers to stage a walkout similar to one at another Letcher County mine on Monday.

Sixty three men, according to a picket spokesman, refused to go to work that day for the Elk Horn-Jellico Coal Company at Marlow, in response to urging by pickets from Hazard and the Leatherwood United Mine Workers Local who offered union subsistence vouchers to any who would walk out on the company.

The official role of the United Mine Workers in the current picketing was partially explained yesterday in a telephone conversation with UMW District 30 president C. E. Beane in Pikeville.

Mr. Beane said the Union has authorized strikes at the Blue Diamond Coal Company's Leatherwood Number 1 mine, and at Elk Horn-Jellico at Marlow.

He added that while his headquarters had not directed the men to picket Southeast Coal Company, the Union stood ready to provide subsistence for all workers who succeeded in closing down any mine.

Asked about the role of Berman Gibson, who led the 1962 "roving picket" movement, in the current organizing drive, Mr. Beane said that Gibson was not an official representative of District 30, and, as far as he knew, was not even a member of the United Mine Workers.

"He is definitely not on our payroll," Mr. Beane said.

Gibson himself denies he has anything to do with the picketing. He was at the scene of the first demonstration at Marlow on Monday, but has not participated in any of the picketing since then.

In reference to certain acts of violence that have occurred in Perry and Letcher Counties this week, Mr. Beane said it has never been the policy of the UMW to advocate violence as an organizing device.

He said the Union's policy is to always picket peacefully.

With reference to the dynamiting of two trucks near Leatherwood early Tuesday morning, Mr. Beane said: "Somebody, and I'll leave it to the public to judge, is doing violence hoping the Union will get the blame for it."

There has been one arrest so far this week, that of 63 year old Ashford Thomas of Hazard, during Tuesday morning's picketing of Southeast Coal Company near Polly in Letcher County.

The arrest, for breach of peace, grew out of an argument between Thomas and a state trooper over whether or not the trooper had driven a police car wrecklessly in the motorcade to Letcher County.

Thomas said he saw a police cruiser pass six picket cars at once. The trooper called Thomas a liar and a brief scuffle ensued. Thomas allegedly pushed a trooper but he denies he started it.

Thomas was placed under arrest and put in a police car, and then driven to the home of a magistrate, who released him on bond and told him to reappear in court Friday morning.

Thomas was returned to the scene of the picketing and released about an hour and a half after he was arrested.

When the scuffle began, several troopers drew carbines and shotguns from their cars, cocked them and stood facing the pickets, about 200 strong.

But the tension subsided when Thomas was in the car, and later several of the pickets stood talking quietly with some of the troopers.

Sgt. Willard Mitchell, Commander of the Hazard Post of State Police talked with the men, and explained that his duty was to protect private property and keep the peace. He pointed out the property that belonged to Southeast Coal Company, and said that as long as the men did not trespass, there would be no trouble.

Two other incidents of violence have been reported by State Police.

The first was the alleged beating of Clyde Hatton of Marlow. Police said he had obviously been beaten in the face but the assailant was unknown.

Picket leaders denied that the fracas had anything to do with the organizing drive. They said that if Hatton was struck, it was an individual action not condoned by the group.

Picket Walter Gamble of Hazard said that Hatton participated in the walkout at Marlow, and has since joined the picket movement.

The other incident was the burning about the legs of Clark Hall, an Elkhorn-Jellico worker.

Sgt. Mitchell said that Hall signed a statement saying he was pushed into a bonfire by pickets in Monday's demonstration.

An eyewitness to the incident, Jason Combs, an officer in the Appalachian Committee For Full Employment, contradicted this account, saying that Hall's trousers accidentally caught on fire when he stood too close to a burning tire the pickets were using to warm themselves.

Combs said a number of pickets and striking workers were standing around the fire and that when Hall's pants ignited, apparently because they had oil on them, the men nearby quickly tried to beat the fire out on Hall's legs.

Hall suffered severe leg burns, according to the police report.

Vocational Training Is Vital

Bills have been introduced in Congress that, if passed, will insure the survival of the federally-backed job training now going on in the Hazard Area Vocational School, and similar institutions across the land.

But if they are not passed, one of the most worthwhile federal programs ever to take hold in Eastern Kentucky may be lost.

Since the Hazard Vocational School began realizing the benefits of the Manpower Development and Training Act, over 900 men and women have taken special accelerated courses that, according to preliminary studies of the results, helped over 75 per cent of them find jobs.

The program is jeopardized now in that the time will soon be up in which the federal government will bear the full financial burden of the program. After June 30 this year, as the law is now written, Kentucky must assume a third of the expense, which would amount to more than $170,000 a month to keep the program going.

Kentucky finances being what they are, the program is in real trouble if this state is faced with that kind of outlay. The worth of the program is not being debated. Everyone who knows about it agrees it has been a success. But even if Kentucky is willing to pay its share, can it afford to?

That question may be purely academic, depending on how the two bills now in Congress fare. One of them, sponsored by Representative Carl D. Perkins, calls for continued full federal financing of the job training program. The other bill would have the state pay ten per cent of the costs, but "in kind" instead of cash, if it wanted to.

State officials in charge of Kentucky's economy reportedly are optimistic that one of the bills will make it. Let us hope so. To require a poor state like Kentucky to finance its own anti-poverty measures—and job training is perhaps our most effective anti-poverty method—would defeat the governments' whole attempt at ridding our society of poverty. Either the program would be discontinued, or the state's limited treasury soon drained, and Kentucky would be more dependent upon the federal government than ever.

Some may ask, why should the federal government be so involved with training a particular state's unskilled workers?

The answer is, unemployment, caused largely by automation and aggravated by poor educational opportunities, is a problem that confronts all of the United States at this time. And as a national problem, a national effort to solve it is going to be required.

Unskilled and unemployed workers are by no means limited to Eastern Kentucky, though perhaps we have more than our share of them. Michigan, New York, South Carolina, Washington, indeed, most of our state's whose economy is based upon industry or mechanized agriculture are finding that new skills are necessary if the worker is to have a place in the modern world. With so many sections of our country faced with the same problem, then, it makes sense to approach its solution collectively, through our central government.

The government should look upon MDTA job training as an excellent investment, from which it can harvest actual cash returns.

In the first place, a man who has been made employable through a vocational school no longer needs welfare support. And in the second place, a man who has left the rolls of unemployed and joined the wage-earning work force of the country begins to contribute to the common fund, through income taxes.

The government should realize that this war on poverty is going to be more than a one or two year effort and that there is no point in setting up elaborate programs this year, only to lose them next year, because of technicalities. The need for job training has just begun. It will continue as long as automation makes old skills obsolete, as long as the needs of a growing American industry continue to change. Whether we like it or not, this need will be with us longer than we can even imagine. The challenge is to be far-sighted and courageous enough to meet it.

Vacuum In Frankfort

The feature story below describes Kentucky's meager efforts to take advantage of the Economic Opportunity Act, otherwise known as the anti-poverty bill.

It is a story of frustration and confusion. Our state, which needs anti-poverty programs perhaps worse than any other in the nation, and the state in which the original impetus for a nationwide anti-poverty drive began, appears to be the least organized, and least interested now that the federal government has made available a few tools with which to fight poverty.

Whose responsibility is it? In the Army, the commanding officer gets the praise, and the blame, for anything his unit does. The same holds true for a state like Kentucky, whose head is Governor Breathitt.

Recently the Governor received a good deal of public praise for Kentucky's efforts to attract and create new industries in the state. This is well and good. But now that Kentucky is obviously fumbling the ball with respect to the Economic Opportunity Act, and the Appalachian Bill as well, the blame must rest with him.

If he would pass the buck to his subordinates, it must be remembered that they are his subordinates by his choosing.

Other states in the Appalachian area, particularly Pennsylvania, have far less need than Kentucky for the pending Appalachian Bill. Yet, because those states have mobilized their resources, and organized a structure for administering the Appalachian Bill, indications are that the first portions, and perhaps the greatest portions of the appropriations will go to those states, and Kentucky will be left about where it is today.

If Kentucky does indeed miss the boat in these programs, the memories of the debacle are not likely to be forgotten next election year.

OUR READERS WRITE

Jobless Fathers' Information

Dear Judge Noplis:

This is to confirm our recent conversation concerning the unemployment regulation with respect to eligibility for assistance under Title V of the Economic Opportunity Act, commonly called the Unemployed Parents Program, and to tools, equipment, etc., supplied counties participating in the Works Program.

Bulletin 131 dated July 14, 1964, which contains regulations governing eligibility to receive assistance states, "An unemployed parent is a father or stepfather of a needy child who has been without regular employment for a period of ninety days prior to the date of application. Regular full time employment consists of a minimum of forty hour week."

With respect to tools and equipment, none has been furnished either Perry or any other county participating in the program by either the State or Federal Governments. All tools, equipment, supplies or anything else used on works projects have been furnished by the local Works Project sponsors. We hope to have money available in the near future to furnish a limited supply of hand tools and supplies to each county participant. When this money becomes available, immediate consideration will be given to your needs as contained in a list of requirements recently submitted to this office.

Very truly yours,

No Penalty For Gardens

Mr. Grover C. Wilson
Attorney at Law
Hazard, Kentucky 41701
Dear Mr. Wilson:

This is in reply to your letter of February 1, 1965 regarding the status of Public Assistance recipients in relation to raising gardens.

There is certainly no restriction in our program that would prohibit our recipients from having gardens. In fact, they are encouraged to do so. The produce from gardens is not counted as income in the recipient's budget, therefore, it does not affect the amount of their grant. At one time the Department was able to obtain some free garden seed and they were distributed among our recipients since they had said that they did not have money to buy seed.

Other than the program for unemployed parents all of our other categories (Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Blind, Aid to Families with Dependent Children and Aid to the Permanently and Totally Disabled) are made up of persons who are not able to work except to a limited degree. However, there are probably enough helping hands in each family to raise a garden if they were interested and had the facilities to do so. The only deterrent that we know in our program that would discourage any recipient from working in a garden would be the borderline incapacitated or disabled fathers who might be afraid to be seen working for fear that their incapacity or disability would be questioned.

You asked if there was any effort made to have people help themselves. The answer is yes. The 1962 Amendments to the Social Security Act provide for social services to be granted to families and individuals with problems. With the help of certain public assistance workers with limited case loads there might be help toward rehabilitation. Another program for self-help is the program for Unemployed Parents which began in January 1964. This program is now a part of Title V of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964. In this program an unemployed father has an opportunity to develop some good work habits, or go to vocational school for training that will help his employability in the future.

We appreciate your interest in the Public Assistance Program and for further information we suggest that you visit our District and County Office located on Judy Avenue in Hazard.

Sincerely yours,
—Aaron Paul

Asher House Restoration

Pineville, Kentucky

Dear Editor:

Enclosed find an article concerning the restoration of the old Dillion Asher house at Queendale on the Red Bird River. Hoping you will find this project newsworthy and that your interest in the restoration of this old landmark will give it some good publicity.

The 7th generation of the pioneer Dillion Asher, which is now living in every part of the nation would number beyond counting. Given enough publicity the museum will be a reality, which would add much of historic and cultural interest of this area.

Thanking you for any interest you may have in this program, I am

We Might At Least Try

(The Herald reprints this Whitesburg Mountain Eagle editorial because of its general interest to local readers).

Letcher County has missed another chance at a regional office of a state department. Apparently we didn't even try for it.

The office to which we refer is that of the regional health center, which the state announced this week would be located in Hazard. Letcher County is one of 18 counties to be served by the new regional center, and the office could just as well have gone here as to Perry County.

In fact, we had an advantage or so, if we had but pressed the matter. Perry County's health center already is built and apparently is too small to hold offices for both the county health department and the regional center. The state has leased the fourth floor of a private office building in Hazard for the health center offices. Since our health center was still on the drawing boards, couldn't we have enlarged it to include regional facilities as well? It has been a matter of public knowledge for several years that the health centers were to be established. If any of Letcher County's political leaders or health department officials made any effort to get the regional center here, we are unaware of it. Certainly there was no appeal for public support.

The regional center will bring to Hazard only 10 persons. But that's 10 families with adequate incomes to spend money in local stores. That's 10 families with adequate educations to help when leadership is needed.

And the center will provide added intangible advantages to Hazard. Every time Hazard gets another regional office of any thing, its position as a commercial center improves. The location of one regional office there (and there already are several) makes the location of still others more likely. It also makes the location of other regional centers, such as community colleges, in Perry County easier to sell to boards of trustees.

Those of us who live in Whitesburg know in our own minds that Whitesburg is a better place to live than Hazard—it is cleaner, it is more modern, it is more liberal (as mountain towns go), it is prettier. But it is difficult, if not impossible, to convince directors and trustees, etc., who have never been to either town that a community of 1,500 persons is a better place to live than a community of 5,000 persons. Whitesburg needs desperately to annex everything from the present city limits to the other side of Mariow on the west side and from the city limits to the other side of Ermie and possibly Mayking on east side. The added population and territory would give us the opportunity to build and to grow. Otherwise we will not only stand still but will begin to decline.

To the argument that the city could not possibly provide proper services for all that area, the answer is that now is the best time—perhaps the only time in our lifetimes—to get everything that is needed, all with the help of the federal government. It begins to look as though Congress will approve more area redevelopment and public works projects, and we are at the top of the priority lists. If we pass up this opportunity, it may never come again.

Only this week Hazard businessmen made a trip to West Virginia to talk about roads to be built under the new Appalachian Development Act. They want the route to take Highway 80 from Floyd County to Perry County. The original plans call for renovation of Highways 23 and 119 which meet in Letcher County. Highway 80 bypasses us. We wonder whether Letcher County businessmen will tell state officials and county officials that Letcher County wants the roads to come here, or whether we will sit silently by and let Hazard talk us out of that too.

When are we going to wake up and at least begin to try for what might be ours?

If our city officials won't do it, then we need to elect some new ones. If our county officials won't do it, then we need to elect some new ones. If our other public groups won't do it, then we need to replace them with ones who will.

Two Great Men

February is the month of the birth of two great Americans—Washington and Lincoln. Quotes from the latter serve to describe both men.

Of Washington, President Lincoln had this to say: "Washington is the

"With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and his orphan—to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

As Lincoln said of Washington, it is impossible to add sun or glory to the name of either man. The best that we can do is pause to consider the ideals these men represented on the anniversary of their births.

State's Anti-Poverty Coordinator Hasn't Even A Desk

By ROBERT TRAUTMAN

Courier-Journal Staff Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky.—James L. Peel has every right to be pessimistic.

As coordinator for Kentucky's participation in the Federal Economic Opportunity Act (E.O.A.), he has overseen not much more than a weak trickle of anti-poverty money into rural Appalachia or Louisville's slums.

And although his job is to act as technical assistant to local communities—to help steer anti-poverty projects through the thickets of forms, formulas and Washington reviews—he hasn't even got a desk, office or staff in Frankfort to call his own.

Desk Is Attache Case

His office is his attache case and his desk is wherever he can find an empty one. Sometimes it's in the area development office and sometimes it's in the budget office, where he used to work.

Still, Peel, at 39 a veteran of administrative ins and outs, is far from pessimistic. Rather, he expresses confidence that the logjam in Washington soon will be broken, starting a steady flow of anti-poverty money into Kentucky.

Since the EOA was signed into law, nearly 100 projects have been proposed and sent to Washington.

Range Wide

They range from a pre-school project in Floyd County and a health, social and industrial improvement program in Hardin County to a 4-H craft center in McCreary County and a community action program in Jefferson County.

The only project of major consequence so far approved is a $9.6-million grant for the unemployed in Eastern Kentucky. That approval came Dec. 16; since then, few projects have been given Washington's approval.

The federal logjam blocking approval of Kentucky projects is due, in part, Peel thinks, to the inexperience of the economic opportunity staff in dealing with the problems of rural hill people.

The staff, for the most part he said, grew up on the Eastern Seaboard. While they are familiar with the needs of the deprived in urban slums, Peel thinks they don't yet realize that in the hollows of Appalachia the problem of getting children to school or the ill to health clinics is as tough as, or tougher than, setting up a preschool clinic or staffing a community care center.

But through visits to Washington by Peel and others, the economic opportunity staff apparently is beginning to realize that solutions to problems in the Cardoza section of Washington or the Bedford-Stuyvesant area of Brooklyn are far different than solutions to the problems of rural Kentucky.

Experience Wide

Peel's optimism is founded on the broad variety of experiences in administration and fiscal affairs he brings to his job.

He has been a teacher, a budget analyst, a child welfare specialist and a technical adviser to Sukarno's government in Indonesia. In addition, he has served two hitches in the Navy, first during World War II and then during the Korean War.

Mrs. Brashear Hosts Viper Homemakers Club February 10

The Viper Homemakers Club met and held their meeting at the home of Mrs. Ruby Brashear Wednesday, February 10th, at 1 p.m.

The devotion was given by Mrs. Florence Whisman and read from "Our Daily Bread" taken from a chapter of the Bible Isaiah 26:31. "Thou wilt keep Him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on thee: because He trusteth in thee."

Some of the highlights brought out in the reading of the devotion were a great blessing to hear read. Such as, it may never occur to you that the word worry does not occur in the Bible not even one time, but the word trust occurs more than one hundred and thirty times.

The word anxious or anxiety is not even one time in the Bible but the word "Peace" is used more than four hundred times. If we trust we do not worry and where there is anxiety there is no peace.

As the waves threatened to fill the boat of the Disciples they were frantic with fear. They awakened Jesus as they did not realize no ship will ever sink, with Jesus in it. They worried because Jesus was sleeping so they awakened him but Jesus was sleeping in the storm because he had no fear or anxiety.

Jesus was our example if we will only trust him we would rest in peace in the midst of life's greatest storm. If he is in the boat with you it cannot sink.

Mrs. Whisman, after the devotion was given, closed with a heart warming prayer.

Roll call was by secretary Mrs. Alpha Brashear. The old business was brought up and it was decided to have an all day meeting next month. Members will make their Spring hats in the period before Spring arrives and at the March meeting a final plan for the Homemakers supper will be announced.

A note from Mrs. Jerry Peterson said they arrived safely and she has been busy quilting with the Ladies Aid Society. She told how she missed all of us but she loved their new home and church.

The lesson for the day "attractive Tables For Your Meals" was given by Mrs. K. C. Brashear and each member read paragraph from circular 590.

Mrs. Ruby Brashear, hostess, helped with the lesson by giving two lessons on table setting while using China and Silver for one setting and bamboo mats and stove-ware for the other. Delicious refreshments were

Napier PTA Aids Heart Fund Drive

The M. C. Napier PTA met in the cafeteria of the M.C. Napier High School for the annual meeting with Guido Castegnaro, President, presiding. Before the meeting got underway, there was a spaghetti supper from 5:00 p.m. until 7:00 p.m. with all the proceeds going to the Heart Fund of Perry County.

We would like to thank all those who came to the supper, enabling us to make about $40.00 for the Heart Fund.

Rev. Paul Edmonds, pastor of the Calvary Bible Church of Viper, gave the devotional, taking as his topic "The Home." He challenged the home to be a place where children are given time by their parents instead of letting them get it some other place. He said, "Don't send your children to school and expect the school to do for them what it is your own responsibility to do."

A new treasurer was chosen to fill in the unexpired term of Mr. William Clay, James Hamblin, teacher in the M. C. Napier School, was chosen by acclamation.

School, was given a lifetime membership in the PTA. The cost of this was made up mostly from donations of Napier teachers. Mrs. Fugate gave Mr. Colwell a book, "Christ and the Fine Arts," in appreciation to him on this occasion.

Cawood Calls Basketball

by WHAS Sports Director Cawood Ledford

SECOND PLACE CHAMPS

While Southeastern Conference coaches insist their league plays as good basketball as almost any in the country, year in and year out, the conference has fared poorly in past season tournament play. The fact that the SEC has produced four NCAA champions in its 32-year existence isn't bad, but all four times it was Kentucky that captured the NCAA title, winning college basketball's most coveted award in 1948, 1949, 1951, and 1958.

Since the Wildcats won that oversized trophy, symbolic of the national championship, in 1958, no Southeastern Conference team has ever won its way out of the Region into the final round of four. In those six years, SEC teams have won only twice while losing six games in NCAA competition. It should be pointed out, however, that the SEC has sent the right, full representative to the NCAA only twice in those half dozen years.

The year after Kentucky won the national crown, 1959, found Mississippi State the conference champion. In those days, State had a policy forbidding play against racially integrated teams, so the league champion Maroons declined their automatic bid to the post season classic. Kentucky and Auburn had tied for second place, but according to SEC rules, Kentucky had defeated Auburn during the regular season and got the ticket to the NCAA. Louisville knocked the Wildcats out in the first game.

A year later in 1960, Auburn won the title. But the Tigers were being punished for football recruiting violations, and the basketball team was forbidden to participate in the NCAA. For the second year in a row the conference had to send its second best team, and Georgia Tech made the trip to Louisville. The Engineers defeated Ohio University in the first game of the Mid-East Regional, but were demolished by Ohio State in the second game.

1961 saw Mississippi State ruling the league again. As in 1959, the Maroons stepped aside rather than play against Negroes. The SEC found itself in a perplexing situation since Kentucky and Vandy had tied for second place, each defeating the other during the season. This brought about a rather embarrassing situation of a play-off for second place. Kentucky won, then lost to Marquette in the first game of the NCAA.

In 1962, Kentucky finished in a tie with Mississippi State for the SEC title, but according to conference rules, Mississippi State was the rightful league representative in the NCAA by virtue of a regular season win over Kentucky. The Maroons declined the bid for the third time and Kentucky, who did go, defeated Butler, then lost to Ohio State.

1963 saw the Maroons of Mississippi State win the SEC crown for the fourth time in five years. This time State decided it would play against the integrated teams, but lost its first NCAA start to Loyola of Chicago.

Last year Kentucky won the SEC, the first time that the Wildcats had really earned the right to represent the league since it won the whole thing in 1958. But Kentucky's team had hit an unbelievable slump at the end of the season, and lost the opening NCAA game to Ohio University.

No, the SEC hasn't fared well against other league champions in the past six years, but 1965 will find the rightful representative at least making the trip. And that's a start in the right direction.

TIMBER POTENTIALS IN PERRY IS GREAT

By Clay Ratliff

During the past twelve years citizens of Perry County have begun to realize the value of mountain land, not for the coal or other minerals that lie beneath the surface but for the potentials of timber production.

The large areas of exposed top soil not suited for agriculture are being planted to vigorous tree seedlings at very little cost to the landowner. Over a period of a few years we will discover that money does grow on trees.

Landowners are rapidly coming to the same conclusion that these old hills which were once covered with extensive high value trees should once again return to timberland, nature's gift to man.

Growing trees mean growing jobs for future generation. A moral and ethical code of the old country is the planting of two small seedlings for every large tree removed. The result is a future crop of timber for each generation that follows.

Your local A. S. C. S. (Farm) Office, in cooperation with the Kentucky Division of Forestry, Soil Conservation Service and County Agent will furnish farmers and landowners with financial and technical assistance for reforestation purposes.

The A.S.C.S. Office is located on High Street in Hazard. They will sign you up now for tree planting this spring. So visit this office or call 436-2421 soon.

Rev. Edward Overburg Is Guest Speaker At Kiwanis Club Meeting

Rev. Edward Overburg, Pastor of local Catholic Church presented the program at the Kiwanis meeting at Don's Restaurant, Tuesday evening, February 16. He presented a series of colored slides of famous buildings and scenery in the leading countries of Europe taken during a tour of Europe two years ago. The views were in Ireland, England, Paris, and Italy including Rome and Venice, and he gave interesting comments and descriptions.

His first views were in Dublin, Ireland, and included the harbor of Dublin; a picture of a country home with a thatched roof; a rocky coast of northern Ireland; a large Protestant Church of Ireland; and a statue of O'Connor in O'Connor square.

From England several views of Buckingham Palace were shown; a statue of Queen Victoria; Trafalgar Square in London; the Tower of London; St. Paul's Cathedral; Thames River; Piccadilly Circus; Big Ben Clock; the Parliament Building; and Westminster Abbey.

From Paris, France were exhibits of the Louvre, a famous Museum converted from a former Royal Palace; the Cathedral of Notre Dame; Hospital of the "Invalides"; Eiffel Tower, built in 1889 A.D. for an Exposition, and made of iron instead of stone; and the Arch of Triumph.

Venice, the city of Canals was next, although they are really the Adriatic Sea extending into land with the possible exception of the Grand Canal; views of Gondolas, motivated by an oar in the hands of a rower called a gondolier; also St. Mark's square, and St. Mark's Cathedral.

From Rome were exhibited the forum and Coliseum; St. Paul's; Hadrian's Castle, the same Hadrian who built Hadrian's wall across northern Britain to keep out the hordes of barbarians from the North in the second century; views of the Tiber River; and views of Vatican City including St. Peter's, Vatican Palace Museum and Gardens. In the Vatican are seen the famous sculptural works of Michael Angelo including the ceiling on which he worked for hours and days lying on his back on a scaffold.

Program chairman was J. F. Brophy. Frank Baker, Vice President presided. The only visitor was Rev. Leon Korty, Assistant pastor of Catholic Church.

ACROSS THE HOME AGENT'S DESK

Citrus Fruits Are Source Of Vitamins Needed By Everyone In Daily Diet

Cecile Townes — Home Demonstration Agent

Oranges, grapefruit, lemons, limes and tangerines are a storehouse of Vitamin C, as well as Vitamin A and B complex. Good supplies of these food values are found in fresh, canned and frozen citrus fruit and juice. Grapefruits, oranges, lemons and limes are temptingly tart and juicy. And they give zest and appeal to almost every other food.

Citrus colors suggest gaiety. Orange and yellow are active colors, and the person who wears them is likely to be energetic and stimulating, psychologists tell us. And they also give zest and appeal to almost every other food.

We can thank early explorers for our bountiful supply of citrus today. Columbus, besides discovering America, introduced America to citrus. In 1493, on his second trip to the New World, he brought several varieties of fruit seeds to Haiti. From there the fruits were taken to Mexico and Central America.

Best Source of Vitamin C
British sailors learned that eating lemons and oranges prevented scurvy, but doctors then did not know that it was the Vitamin C in the fruit that was so beneficial. Scurvy is not a disease problem in the United States today; however, to avoid any of the symptoms of scurvy, Vitamin C is needed in the diet daily. It is valuable for normal growth, maintenance and repair of body tissues, resistance to colds and infections, proper tooth formation and maintenance of healthy gums.

People of all ages are dependent upon Vitamin C. To obtain the minimum daily allowance as set by the National Research Council, you should select one of these for your family:

6 ounce glass orange juice, 6 ounce glass grapefruit juice, 1 large orange, 1/2 large grapefruit, 3 tangerines.

The fruit sugars of citrus also make them valuable energy pickups for between meals snacks.

Young mothers also need their share of the vitamin. Even before a baby is born, he obtains it from his mother's blood supply. Nursing mothers need twice their usual allowance. And orange juice, diluted with water, is often the first food other than milk the doctor recommends for a newborn infant. Throughout life, this important vitamin is needed to maintain good health.

Vitamin C is more easily lost during cooking than any other vitamin. It is both water-soluble and sensitive to heat and air. Therefore, prolonged standing at room temperature or heating causes considerable loss, and proper storage is important. Modern canning and freezing methods fortunately have little effect on Vitamin C. Keeping fruit juices covered in the refrigerator helps insure their nutritive value.

Citrus fits into menus in so many wonderful ways. Although breakfast is the popular serving time, interesting fruit dishes can be planned for lunch and dinner.

Fresh grapefruit halves, broiled or with toppings of shredded coconut, seeded grapes, sliced berries or mint leaves, are refreshing appetizers as well as breakfast starters. Grapefruit sections mixed with shrimp or cottage cheese and tossed with dressing make low calorie luncheon salads. Almost all citrus can be sliced onto lettuce and topped with dressing for tangy accompaniment salads.

Orange sections add zest to ambrosias and puddings for desserts, combine well with other fruits for salads, and are flavorful garnishes for meats and fish.

Often used only as colorful garnishes, lemons are an excellent source of ascorbic acid and are very low in calories. For a nutritive garnish serve a fifth or a fourth of a lemon as a wedge to squeeze over fish, vegetables and salads. These juicy California grown fruits make refreshing lemonades and are a tart ingredient for punch.

Limes, delicious in fruit drinks, have made the Key Lime pies as popular as lemon meringue pies in some homes.

Tangerines, grown commercially mostly in Florida, are usually eaten out of hand. A bowl of these fruits, sitting on a convenient table, is a tempting way to get folks to eat a nutritious snack.

Florida is the sole producer of tangelos for the fresh market. They're a hybrid tangerine and grapefruit with the fine flavor of both but not the latter's tartness. Tangelos are the size and color of oranges.

"Hold don't squeeze is the buy-line for juicy fresh fruit. The heavier it feels in the hand, the more juice it will contain. Color has nothing to do with ripeness, contrary to what many shoppers believe. The time of the harvesting season, the area of production, and the variety of the fruit all affect the color. Green skin doesn't mean "green" or unripe fruit.

The skin is an indication of quality, too. Thin-skinned fruits with firm smooth texture are better than heavily surfaced, thick-skinned fruits. Surface blemishes and slight discolorations have no effect on flavor within the fruit, but badly creased or "spongy skin" suggests poor quality. Many feel that russet patches on some grapefruits indicate the best flavor of all.

Morehead Has 3,513 Enrolled

Morehead State College has a record Spring semester enrollment of 3,513 students, President Adron Doran announced today.

The record Spring enrollment is up 12% over the Spring enrollment of 1964 when 3,137 students were enrolled.

Morehead's fall enrollment this school year hit an all-time high of 3,806 students — up 17% from the previous high of 3,238 students set in the Fall of 1963.

The enrollment drop from the first semester to the second is a natural decrease caused by mid-term graduation, students dropped for academic reasons, and various personal reasons said Dr. Doran.

Hazard Schools Plan Mass Census Taking

Since President Johnson has declared "War on Poverty" much attention has been given our Appalachian Region. We have focused our attention on upgrading the economic conditions of Eastern Kentucky. We are attempting to overcome the shortcomings in our elementary and secondary schools by promoting programs to enable our youth to develop to their full potential.

A wealth of opportunities now has been made available to school systems and counties of this area by the Economic Opportunities Act and the Appalachian Bill recently enacted by legislation.

In order for us—the citizens of Hazard City School District—to avail ourselves of the many worthwhile programs made possible by the Federal Government all residents of the Hazard School District are being asked to participate in a "Mass Census Taking" beginning this week.

Members from each of the three P.T.A.'s in the Hazard City Schools will conduct the census. These ladies have volunteered their time and effort in this worthwhile cause. We want to encourage all residents to supply all information the census taker will request. This information is absolutely necessary if we are to receive federal aid in this area for our community. The census taker and others engaged in this work will keep all information confidential.

S.E.C. Will Participate In U.K. Founder's Day Program

The staff and student body of the University of Kentucky Southeast Community College will participate in the Founders Day Ceremony at the Lexington campus on February 22. President and Mrs. Johnson will join the academic representatives from other educational institutions and learned societies and the President will be the featured speaker of the Founders Day Ceremonies.

The Southeast Community College is planning a series of events on its own campus as a part of the University of Kentucky Centennial celebration. On March 12 there will be a centennial symposium entitled "The Role of Education in Development Change in Eastern Kentucky." The program will last throughout the day and feature an address by Bert Combs, former governor of Kentucky.

There will be a centennial essay contest, centennial publication by Mrs. Rebecca Caudill Ayers, and a centennial visitation by Dr. Allen Tate on September 23 and 24.

A weekend of activities is being planned for October 2 through 5. The second annual Kingdom Come Swappin' Meeting, a Folk Art Festival, will begin the activities. On October 5 the centennial convocation will feature a noted speaker and will be preceded by an academic procession which will include the Governor, the President of the University and University of Kentucky Deans and Department Heads.

Perry County School News

Mr. Dennis C. Wooton, Superintendent of Perry County Schools and Roy G. Eversole, Superintendent of Hazard City Schools have gone to Atlantic City, New Jersey to attend the American Association of School Administrators. They expect to return to Hazard on Thursday, February 18.

Miss Naomi Eversole has resigned as first grade teacher at Big Creek Elementary School and accepted a position as dietitian at the Hazard Appalachian Hospital. Miss Eversole was replaced by Mrs. Bessie Jones, the first grade teacher at Upper Pigeon Roost. Miss Omeda Campbell replaced Mrs. Jones at Upper Pigeon Roost and Mrs. Ruth Helton replaced Mrs. Campbell to become the new teacher for the Barrett Mountain School.

We do not have much news from the schools at this time however all of the consolidated schools and the head teachers of the smaller schools have been contacted and all say they are interested and will be sending us news from time to time.

There is plenty of news in every school. In the larger schools the morning assembly, club meetings, athletic events, home room activities and many other things catch the eye and command the attention of the everyday reader.

The smaller school children also make news every day on the playgrounds as well as in the classrooms.

The principals of the large schools would do well to put in print an occasional progress report and let the people know what they are doing. Some parents visit their schools and know what the teachers and children are doing, but many more do not visit and therefore do not know the procedures at school.

It is our duty as teachers, principals and office personnel to inform the public through school news and thus lead and direct the children into the right educational paths. This will help build public relations, boost moral and bring about better understanding between principals, teachers, children and parents.

Parents had rather read about their own children than read about the exploits of kings great athletes, generals or the renowned presidents of our beloved U.S.A.

S-Sgt. J. E. Jones Now On Duty At Missouri AFB

Staff Sergeant James E. Jones, son of Clifton Jones of Suddy, Ky., has arrived for duty at Richards-Gebaur AFB, Missouri.

Sergeant Jones, an air police supervisor, is assigned to an Air Defense Command unit which defends the continental U. S. against enemy air attack.

The sergeant attended Winchester (Ky.) High School. He is married to the former Cynthia Johnson, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson of R. R. 3, Winchester, Ky. His mother, Mrs. Laura Campbell, resides at 6423 E. 86th St., Kansas City, Mo.

Mr. George Anderson Sr., of Hazard, a former Combs resident died Saturday after a long illness. His funeral was held Sunday at the Maggard Funeral Home Chapel.

President Announces Plans For A More Beautiful America

President Lyndon B. Johnson has announced his intentions and plans for a more beautiful America, and Kentucky is ready to throw its clean-up and beautification program solidly behind him.

This was the view taken at a recent executive planning session of the Kentucky Clean-Up and Beautification Committee, which also laid out initial plans for a statewide conference on clean-up and beautification of Kentucky's cities and countryside this spring.

"It is our hope that this conference will focus statewide attention on our program in line with President Johnson's aims for a more beautiful America and Kentucky's continuing desire to present a cleaner, more progressive face to tourists and possibly new industry," said State Commissioner of Natural Resources J. O. Matlick, whose department is sponsoring the drive.

"The work of many clubs and communities has been unexcelled but we need to involve far more individuals and organizations," he said.

"I know we will succeed—if we can produce effective organization and infectious enthusiasm on down the line, from the great metropolitan areas to the citizens of the smallest Eastern Kentucky hollow."

Mrs. Connie Quinn, who heads the Natural Resources Department's division of clean-up and beautification, also reported on the National Cleanest Town Conference which she attended in Washington, D. C., this month. Presented with awards for distinguished achievement at the conference

"Get In The Game Of Life", Is Topic Of Speech by Napier Teacher

Mr. James Hamblin, an English teacher at M. C. Napier School, spoke to the Napier F.H.A. Chapter about Citizenship. The topic of his speech was, "Get in the Game of Life."

The definition of a citizen is a member of a nation, owes allegiance to it and is entitled to rights granted by it's government.

Mr. Hamblin spoke of three types of students: (1) The Sponge Type - that soaks it up. (2) The Stone - bounces off. (3) The Spark - that takes it up and gives it off.

At this meeting he told of the background of our Citizen-ship.

He quoted Jesse Stewart by saying "I'd rather had a B student with an A character than an A student with a B character. He also gave an illustration on it.

Miss Phyllis Neace, Second Vice President of the Chapter was in charge of another meeting. She had a skit worked up which consisted of Phyllis Neace, Brenda Dean, Floretta Smith, Linda Jones, and Novena Trimbee. The purpose of the skit was to give the members a better understanding of the work. Some of the points it brought out were that Home Economics projects can also be counted as F. H. A. projects. That projects, not only helps you get the degree you are working toward, but helps with some of yours or your family's problems.

Perry County Burley Tobacco Growers

To Vote On Market Quota February 25

Perry County farmer who grow Burley tobacco got a last minute reminder today about the marketing quota vote to be held Thursday, February 25, 1965.

Any person who had a share in the 1964 crop of Burley tobacco or its proceeds—as owner, operator, share tenant, or sharecropper is eligible to vote in the referendum. Also, each person who was either the owner or operator of a farm for which a 1964 tobacco acreage allotment was established is eligible to vote, even though no tobacco was actually produced on the farm in 1964, if an allotment was established for the farm for 1965.

Earl Amis Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, pointed out that in this referendum growers will have the choice of approving or disapproving quotas for the next three crops. If at least two-thirds of the growers voting vote YES, the quotas will be approved.

A favorable vote, under governing legislation, will mean approval of the present tobacco program, with penalties on marketings of excess tobacco, and price supports on the 1965, 1966, and 1967 crops of Burley tobacco.

An unfavorable vote will mean no quotas, no penalties, and no price support on the 1965 crop of Burley tobacco. In this event another referendum would be held next year on quotas for the following three crops.

Chairman Amis urges all growers to go to their local polling places on Thursday, February 25, 1965, and vote.

Communism

Communism is a fallacious form of government. I know we would not want to be ruled by such a impudent and outrageous form of dictatorship. YOU the people that read this article could prevent communism by:

1. See that other Americans are fully and correctly informed about the true objectives and methods of communism and its danger to all we hold dear.
2. Encourage RELIGION in your community. Attend and support the church of your choice. The Word of God is the weapon most feared by the communists.
3. Take an active interest in public affairs. ALWAYS vote in elections—get others out to vote.
4. Support the election to public office of candidates who understand the scope and seriousness of the communist problem and agree to work for its elimination.
5. Be fair with your government. In the interest of fair play and sound economy, vote on the basis of what you feel is best for the country and not on the basis of "whats good for me." Our government will be only as strong as we make it.
6. Take a vital interest of the education of your children. Get to know their teachers. Know how school books are selected and what they contain. Be sure that communist poison is not being administered right under your very eyes.
7. Don't join groups—don't sign petitions, UNLESS YOU FIRST INVESTIGATE THEM! Communists have so perverted such appealing words as "peace" "freedom" "youth" and "mother", that any organization or document using these or similiar words should be questioned until you know who is behind it.
8. If any evidence of Communism at work should come to your attention, get in touch with your nearest FBI agents office. Give them all the facts and then forget about it, unless asked by the FBI to do otherwise. Now that you have read how to combat communism help abolish it. I ask again please help combat communism. IT CAN'T BE DONE WITHOUT YOUR HELP.

Napiers Have New Daughter;

Old Regular Baptist Church Meets

By Mrs. Hale Bowling

Valentine's Day was observed in the school here with each room having a party. Refreshments of cookies and soft drinks were served in Mrs. Davidson's room and she gave each child a sugar daddy.

Mrs. Jane Hurt, who has been staying at Hazard during the bad weather, is back at home now.

There were services at the Old Regular Baptist Church this past Saturday and Sunday. We went Sunday and there were approximately 60 people there.

Jack Davison has taken membership with the Baptist Church here.

Tom Stidham counted 33 members of this church that are over 65 years of age.

John Duff joined the Baptist Church in October 1912, and started preaching in June of 1921. He will be 83 years old in May.

There were six preachers who talked at the services: Ader McDaniel, Ed Campbell, Jason Combs, Tom Stidham, Jack Davidson, and John Duff.

Services will be held the second Saturday and Sunday of each month.

Mr. Matt Davidson, who lives on Grapevine, is very ill. Mr. Davidson is 97 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Lilo Napier have a new baby girl, born

Thursday, February 11th.

Mr. Floyd White's wife has made him the proud father of twin boys.

The young people of Chavies had a Valentine party in the basement of the Church of God this past Sunday night. Refreshments of koolade and cup cakes were served.

Several educational games were played and everyone had a wonderful time.

February is a famous month for births of famous people. My good neighbor Mrs. Alice Davis celebrated her birthday anniversary the 14th of this month. Jack Duff's birthday was the 14th and Mr. Scott Duff had a birthday on the 12th, the same as Abraham Lincoln.

Miss Meridythe Ann Eversole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Eversole of Chavies is one of 22 nursing students receiving honorable mention in the Appalachian School of Nursing at Harlan. Each of these girls were presented caps in a candle ceremony. Meridythe Ann is in the second of a three year course.

Chavies Teachers Attend Classes

Our school was invited to have charge of the opening exercises at the first In-Service Day program held at the Big Creek Elementary school, January 28th.

The program consisted of the following: Bible reading by Phyllis Combs, February talk by Anthony Sanders and Lynn McIntosh, Boy Washington by Judy Ann Bishop, Washington's Hatchet by Phyllis Combs.

Folk dancers were: Cathy Ann McIntosh, Lynn McIntosh, Jeannie Combs, Phyllis Combs, Anthony Sanders, Ray Farler, Kenneth Hamblin and Larry Baker.

Mrs. Joyce Stidham and Mrs. Jewel Whitaker were in charge of the program.

Since February was the month for the 8th and one section of the 6th grades to decorate the bulletin board in the hall, they chose different scenes and happenings in the lives of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington.

These were drawn free-hand and used as the central theme for decorating the board. Since we do not have the advantage of a visiting art teacher we are trying to develop some of the good talent we have in our school.

Last month's PTA meeting was not held due to bad weather. The next meeting will be held sometime this month.

Each class had a Valentine party Friday, February 12th.

The following faculty members are attending Saturday classes on Eastern's campus or night classes at Hazard sponsored by Eastern: Estill Herald, Vaughn Duff, Jewel Whitaker and Joyce Stidham attended Saturday classes last semester. Ella Whitaker and Vaughn Duff have just completed an extension course given at Hazard.
